THE POLITICAL ADVANCEMENT OF WARREN G. HARDING

In 1889 Harding launched his first political campaign for the State Senate. Here he served four useful years. A while after that Warren Harding spoke in Chautauquas, but his work in the Senate won for him the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ohio in 1903. In 1908 he first addressed a national Republican convention.

Following this, he was elected in 1914 to the United States Senate by over 102,000 majority. He was soon recognized as a Senator with a level head and was made a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs and had much to do with drafting the document declaring war.

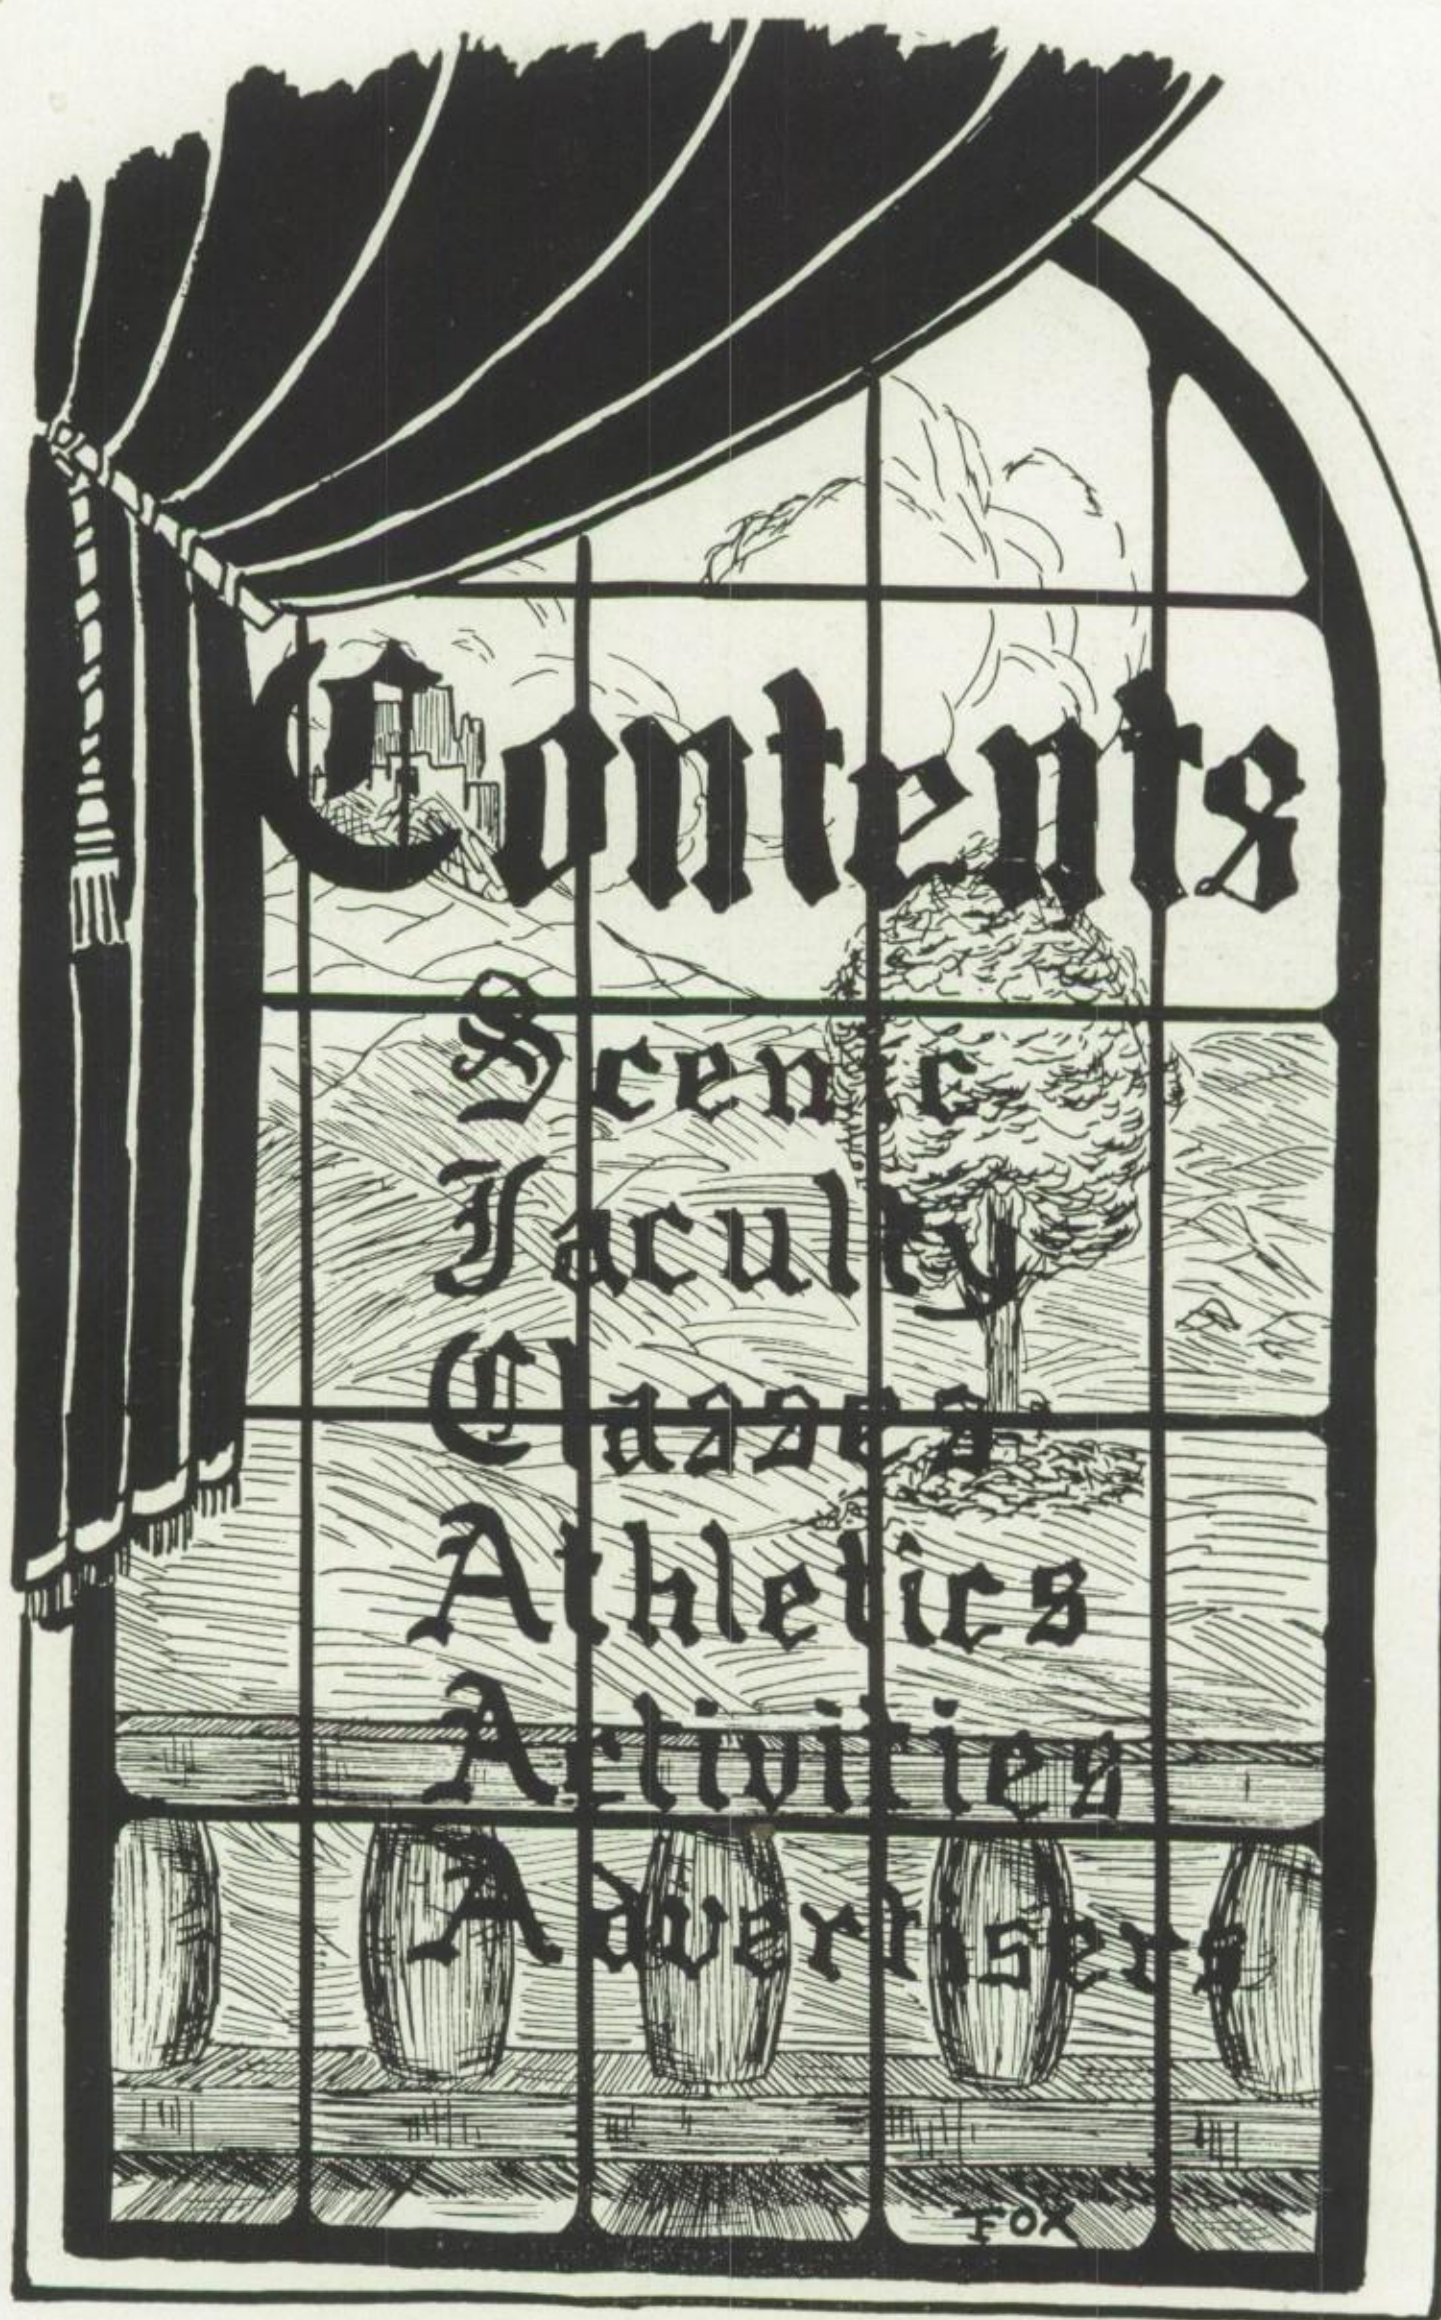

At the Republican National Convention at Chicago in 1920, after many ballots were taken, Warren G. Harding was finally chosen Republican presidential candidate. Harding, like Lincoln and McKinley, carried on a "front porch" campaign. During this campaign Mr. Harding gathered around him the great men of the nation, who later comprised his cabinet and under officers.

Just fifty-five years after he was born, Warren Gamaliel Harding was overwhelmingly elected twenty-ninth president of the United States.

Harding spent over two brilliant years in the office of President. His untimely death came after his Alaskan trip in August, 1923.

SENIOR CLASS

Classes come and classes go, so came the Class of '24 in the early part of September, 1920. We were assigned to the East Hall as a retreat from the batter and torment which is inevitably the lot of Freshies at the hands of the upper classmen.

Soon after the beginning of the second semester we organized ourselves under the following leaders: President, Charles Schoenlaub; Vice President, Robert Geran; Secretary, Russell Evans, and Treasurer, Warren Sawyer.

We were ready for everything. Athletics, debate, and socials; nothing escaped us.

It was during our Freshman year that our fellow townsman, Warren G. Harding, was nominated for President of the United States and that Marion High School was changed to Harding High School in his honor.

So ended our Freshman year.

In our Sophomore year we elected the following class officials: President, Charles Schoenlaub; Vice President, Robert Geran; Secretary, Lester Brickley, and Treasurer, Sam Brown.

Much to our disappointment on entering our Sophomore year, we were again assigned to the East Hall, because of the organization of Junior High the "Freshies" were not permitted to enter Harding High until they became Sophomores. This was quite a setback to our Sophomore dignity. Yet this indeed did not dampen our ardor in the East this year. We really made a record for ourselves. Not only did we win the Inter-class Basket Ball Championship, but we also sent representatives to the Varsity Football and Basket Ball teams, as well as the Debate team. The last event of our Sophomore year was a social, which was indeed a success.

Our Junior year, up to this time, was the year of greatest responsibility and importance.

This year we elected the following officers: President, Kenneth Seiter; Vice President, Emma Duerr; Secretary, Margaret Clapsaddle, and Treasurer, Carl Campbell.

The Quiver

We again sent representatives to Basket Ball, Football and Debate. Success in all of our activities was our motto. To this end we set about to plan and make the Junior-Senior Banquet the success that it really was. The QUIVER staff for our Senior year was appointed, which put out the last three issues in the Junior year. It was only three short months until they were to become Seniors.

Then came the climax of our High School career. At last we entered the portals of Harding High School as Seniors. Realizing that in our Senior year we were looked up to by all of the other class officers, we got down to business.

The class officers were: President, Loren Allen; Vice President, Dorothy Briggs; Secretary, Mary Hughs, and Treasurer, Carl Campbell.

Our attention was first centered upon putting over the QUIVER JUNIOR. This accomplished, we next turned to the Lecture Course which each Senior class strives to make better than that of the class of the preceding year.

The annual lecture course of the Senior class was one of the outstanding events of the year. The course contained five numbers from the Redpath and Coit Lyceum Bureau.

The first number was William Anthony McGuire, recent Broadway comics "Six Cylinder Love," presented by the Percival Vivian players.

The second number was the Mary Adel Hays Opera Singers, who entertained by a complete program of grand and light opera numbers.

Hilton Ira Jones, Ph. D., chemist, author, and organizer, lectured on "The Modern Sciences." Mr. Jones has a nation-wide reputation as a scientist-author. He demonstrated many of his experiments and made the third number of the course a wonderful success.

Adrian M. Newens, famous monologist, produced the play "A Message from Mars." Mr. Newens played the part of five leading characters and several minor ones. He is a master of the technique of his profession.

The final number was the Harp Ensemble Company. This company, consisting of five young ladies, is one of the big successes of the Lyceum field. The musicians rendered several harp solos and a number of trios and quartettes.

The course as a whole was a wonderful success, netting the Senior class an income of over three hundred dollars. The course was backed up by the spirit of Harding High School, and made possible only by the students and parents, who enjoy a talented entertainment.

We also established a new custom by ordering our rings and pins in the first semester. With so much to think of, the second semester was soon well under way. Then in quick succession came the May Festival, the final exams, Class Day, Commencement Sermon, and finally Commencement.

And now at the close of our busy and happy high school career, we wish to extend our appreciation to the members of the faculty for the aid that they have given us in preparing ourselves for the future.

It is with reluctance that we turn our backs on Harding High School where we are now numbered among the Alumni.

Due to the early date of taking the Senior pictures, the following students were listed as Seniors by mistake: CECIL MALONEY, CLARENCE HART, JAMES KENNEDY.

CLASS SONG OF '24

Words written by FRED A BAUGHMAN

Music written by BEN SAGER and AMY NASH

Gone are our dear old high school days,
Yes, gone but not forgotten;
This is the parting of our ways,
Farewell, each one to seek his fated lot.
Happy the times we've spent together,
Many the friends we've made;
May we always seek to uphold
Our colors dear, Maroon and Gold.

Chorus:

Dear old Harding High, we're leaving;
Making room for others who,
Sad, like us, will soon be grieving
When they say goodbye to you.
May you lose your glory never,
May each year bring great success;
May you have good students ever,
Who seek first for nobleness.

Soon we must start on life's great quest,
Soon we must leave old friends;
Surely each of us shall bravely breast
Each new task—and to the end be true.
May we ever seek for the truth within,
And establish peace forever;
Our aim, success; our hope, to win;
Here's to you, class of '24.

Chorus:

Dear old Harding High, we're leaving;
Making room for others who,
Sad, like us, will soon be grieving
When they say goodbye to you.
May you lose your glory never,
May each year bring great success;
May you have good students ever,
Who seek first for nobleness.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

At the opening of the second year, which was our first year at Harding High, Wendell Fidler was elected president; Nannette Newby, vice president; Raymond Cookston, treasurer, and Ruth Ritzhaupt, secretary. We held a Hallowe'en social in the gym, which was succesful because of the support of many members of the class. We were represented on football squads by "Cobby" and "Mendy," and basket ball by "Mendy" and "K. O." Kunkler. We were unsuccessful in our inter-class basket ball and debate, but still had two more years to make good. We closed our Sophomore year with a great desire for taking up the life of a Junior.

We opened our Junior year by immediately organizing. The officers elected were: President, Warren Ballentine; vice president, John Bartram; secretary, Mary Key, and treasurer, Dwight Foreman. In our Junior year we were largely represented on both the football and basket ball squads and Della Larson represented the Juniors in the triangle debate. We had a Hallowe'en social, but by far the largest and most successful event of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet. This social event speaks for Junior ability.

Our Junior year came to a happy end, yet with some sadness, for we were to lose our advisors and friends, the Seniors. The burden of the school is now ours. With the same "pep" and "spirit" we will close one more year.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

Coming fresh from Junior High, Vernon Heights, and Harding High—336 Sophomores entered the huge building, with its long window and numerous lockers, which will serve us for the next three years as our domicile. At first the long halls, the many rooms, and the window shades were very mystifying, but as time went on we discovered their deep mysteries.

Our class began the first year in Harding High by electing the following officers to pilot us over the dangerous Sophomore ocean: Albert Linscott, president; Doris Davis, vice president; Elizabeth Hulse, secretary, and treasurer, George Felmoth. Not long after taking the oath of office our treasurer, because he expected to leave Marion, resigned, and his place was filled by Herman Ruhl.

In early September the football call was issued in East Hall and a few candidates reported for practice. We were not represented well in this major sport; Rex Miller was the only Sophomore who made the squad.

Immediately following football came the basket ball cry, in which our percent in candidates was above par. We were represented in this sport on the squad by Geissler and Linscott.

In the inter-class basket ball contest we showed up very well, defeating some of the best teams in the high school.

Although sports take a major part of our activities in high school, we must not forget our social side. Our first social of the year was held in early September under the auspices of the Harding Hi-Y Club. It was called a "Mixer" and it was a great success, for everyone was entertained in the best manner possible.

VOCATIONAL CLASS HISTORY

The Vocational course now enrolls seventy-six students, twenty-two of these students being part-time and co-operative students. They are divided into two sections that alternate between factory and school. During a given week, eleven of the boys will be working in industry, while the other eleven are at school, during their shop and academic work. The week following the two sections change around. This plan affords each student the opportunity to get practical work in industry along with his high school work. The high school courses are in turn selected so as to correlate with the work the student wishes to take up in industry. Five of the members of this year's graduating class are completing the work of the vocational course. One of the group is now making plans to continue the work in the vocational training field by entering Antioch College in September.

The work of the vocational course has been planned so as to mean a maximum of co-operation with the industries of Marion. With this end in view, the work has been so arranged that all the finished products of the various classes go immediately back into industry, and at no time do they become worthless by-products. This plan has not only resulted in a higher type of co-operation with local industry, a higher type of work on the part of the student, and an economical program, but it has also brought in financial returns sufficient to cover much of the up-keep of the department.

The variety and quality of the work that is being done by the boys in the machine shop is bringing to the Marion vocational course a reputation that is second to none in the state. Incidentally, it has given fine testimony to the work and efficiency of the co-ordinator, L. H. Rieker, and his assistants, C. H. Rensch, and L. E. Walters.

VERNON HEIGHTS

Early in the school year the Freshman class of Vernon Heights elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Joseph Rinnert; vice president, Irene Kraus; secretary, Clara Gillan; treasurer, George Stafford, and Oscar Hittenranch as QUIVER representative. Under these officers the class was successful in all school activities.

The annual school play, a mystery-drama, in three acts, entitled "The Empty House," was successfully given early in December. The principal characters were: Lucille McCurdy, Joseph Rinnert, Ralph Lewis, Catherine Artopous and Carl Fogle. The play was coached by Wilson Dumble and was considered the best in the history of Vernon Heights.

A debate was staged by the history classes of the ninth grade on the following question, Resolved, "That Julius Caesar was far greater and did more for the benefit of Rome than Augustus Caesar." This debate was very well given, and showed a possibility of a successful future.

Social activities which were enjoyed by the Freshman class were: wiener roast, Hallowe'en party, banquet for play cast, sleigh ride, and a Freshman social.

CENTRAL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

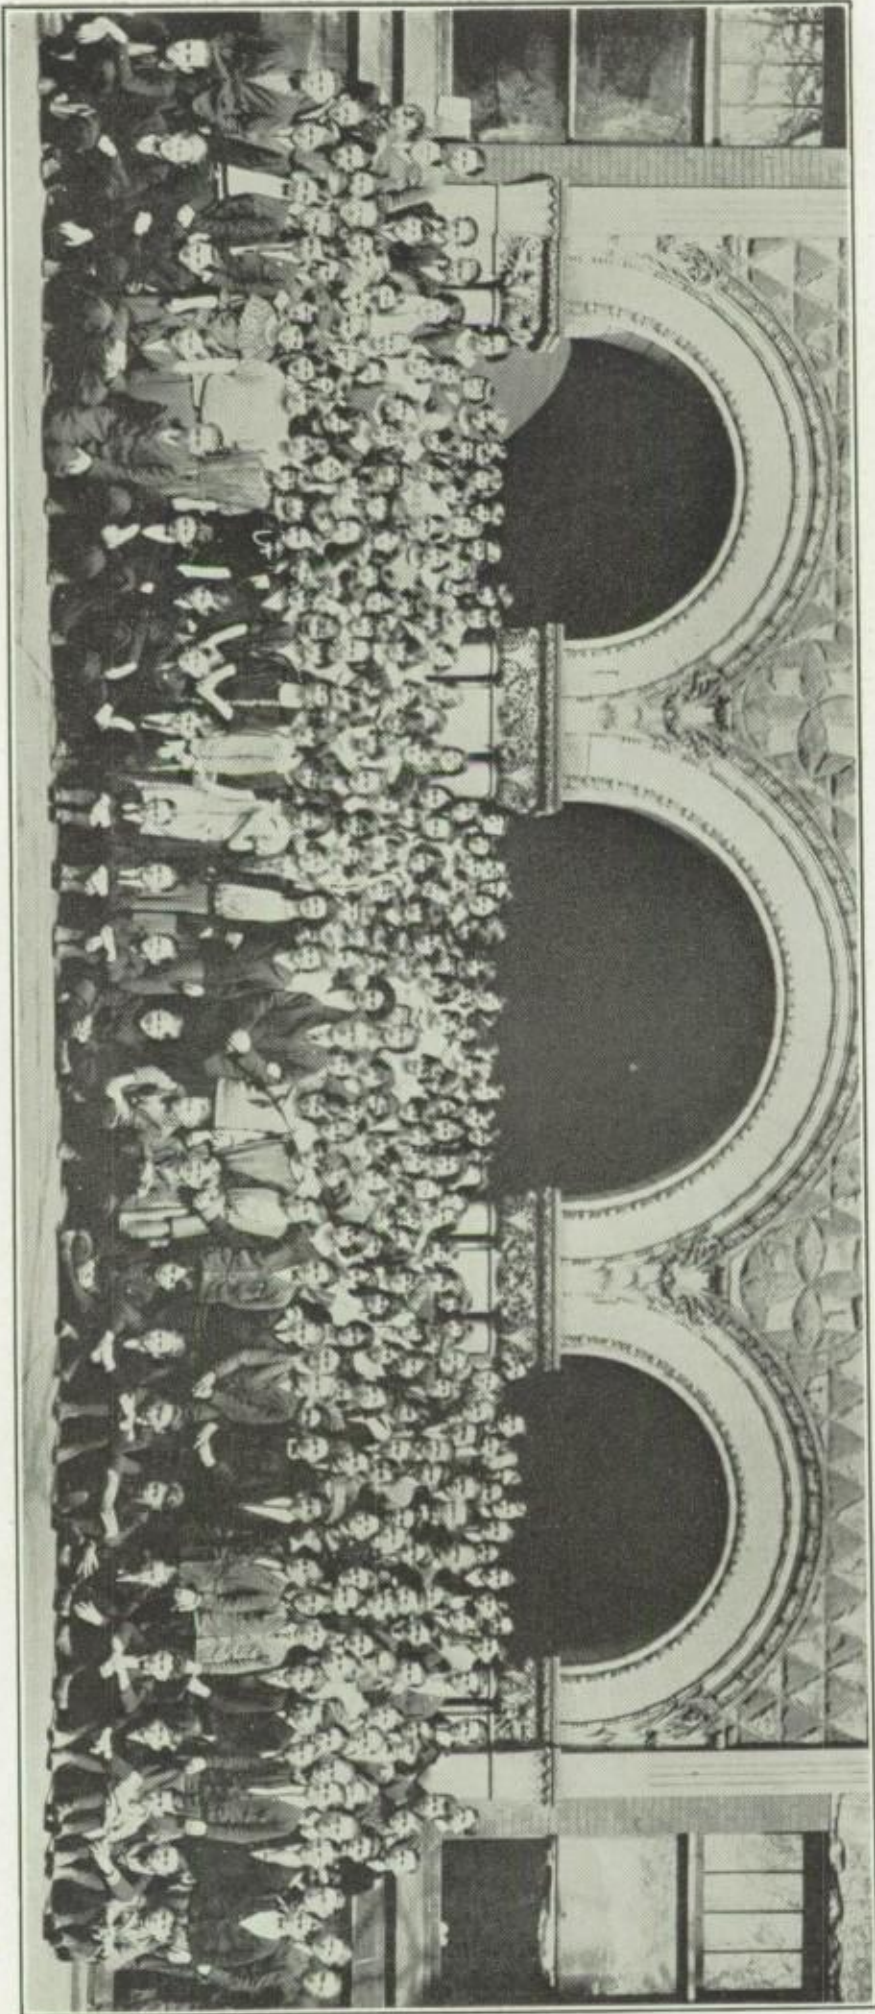

With the graduation of the ninth grade class from Central Junior High School this spring, one of the largest classes in the history of the school passes to Harding High. The class has been ably lead by David Morgan as class president, Jean DeWolfe as vice president, Carrol Born as secretary, and Clyde Morrison as treasurer. By these officers and through the efforts of Carrol Born and Ruth Lashey, as cheer leaders, the school spirit has maintained a high standard all year.

A class banquet was held in May and two weeks before the closing of school the class play, "The New Parson," a comedy in three acts, was staged. Those taking part in the play were: Francis McElory, Elenor Tennis, Earl Estep, Virginia Smith, Marion Lewis, Mary Katherine Tennis, Ruth Lashey, David Morgan, Mary Ketner, Ben Gilmore, Jean DeWolfe, Marion Kennedy, Hershal Headlev, Kathleen Beicher, Von Schertzer, Vesta Robbins, Trella Minard, Nick Bader, Ioe Drake, Virginia Wilson, George Gretser, Howard Travis, Louise Foreman, Ruth Ella Roush, Harry Blair, Robert Williams, Douglas Smith and Mildred Kysor. The play was coached by Mr. Selanders, and special musical features were worked out by Mr. Selanders, L. E. Walters, Ben Sager, and Wilson R. Dumble.

The ninth grade teachers at Central Junior High, during the year, were:

MR. W. C. SELANDER.....	Principal
MR. WILSON R. DUMBLE.....	Ancient History
MISS HILDA JOSEPH	English
MR. DORN E. REA.....	Commercial
MISS BESSIE SNIDER	General Science
MRS. CAROLINE STRUTHERS.....	Algebra

ATHLETICS

Football

The Quiver

Paul Sprout

It is only "fitting and proper" that there should be reserved in these pages of the QUIVER ANNUAL a section to be devoted to Coach Paul Sprout, who as football director for the Red and Black gave Harding High one of the finest gridiron teams in the history of the school.

Sprout deserves credit not only for turning out a team that won seven out of eight contests and thereby won the North Central Ohio championship; but for building an eleven that played the game clean and hard, with an ultimate goal of good sportsmanship rather than mere victory.

Up at Otterbein they know him as "Sprouty," the man who held down a position on the varsity squad for three consecutive years—down here at the high school we address him with the dignified term of "Coach." But a rose by any other name—he is still the self-same Sprout that lead the fighting Scarlet and Gray to victory in the palmy days of 1920.

And the record set by Sprout's fighting Maroons stands out as one of the best ever recorded in the annals of any school. With the single exception of the Galion game, the season's scoreboard shows a clean sweep of North Central Ohio football contenders.

Other than his activities in football, Coach Sprout is highly interested in track. Figures clad in abbreviated costumes, cavorting around a hard cinder track have long since laid their claim on Harding's football mentor.

The track team at present is the latest addition to the cradle roll in H. H. S. minor sports and what it will develop into during the next few years is left in the hands of the man who has given the Harding High School one of the finest records in high school sport circles that we have ever known.

Russell Evans

When Rip Van Winkle came tramping down the Catskills and beheld the change time had wrought in his world after twenty years of slumber, he was amazed and distraught. None the less would be F. Russell Evans if he could have seen, at the age of six years, the meteoric career he would undergo during his high school days.

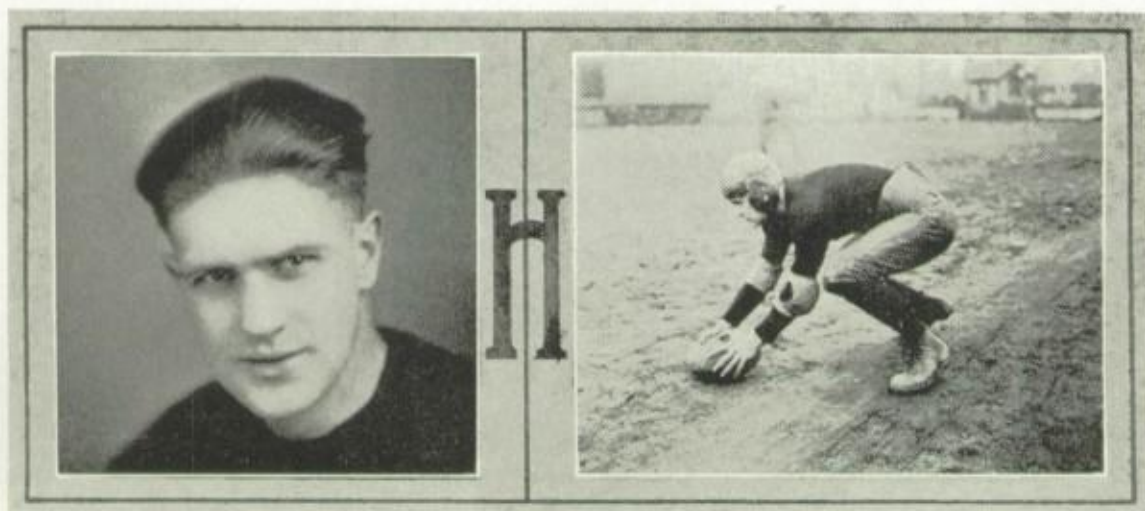

"Russ" leaves the old red jersey behind with one of the finest records, from a purely athletic viewpoint, ever set by a high school graduate. Varsity basket ball and football, baseball, tennis, track, and gym, he indeed stands as a typical example of Webster's definition of "versatile."

Memory, alone, now can depict those scenes of the plucky "Russ" calmly picking his way through a field of oncoming opponents; of "Russ" sending skyward with keen accuracy those long, beautiful punts; of "Russ" silhouetted against a background of frenzied fans, balancing the ball on his hand like an ancient discobolus, prepared to heave the pigskin to a sprinting end.

Were we to carve in the Harding Hall of Fame all of her football heroes, close to the top would stand Evans. Embodied in his person is at once the efficient football mechanism of a triple threat man of the first water and at the same time the sterling ability molded of that clay which has made Harding High gridiron history the most colorful and cherished one of all sports.

He is gone, he will be missed; but he still possesses unlimited latent possibilities which will, no doubt, be brought to the surface during his college career.

The Quiver

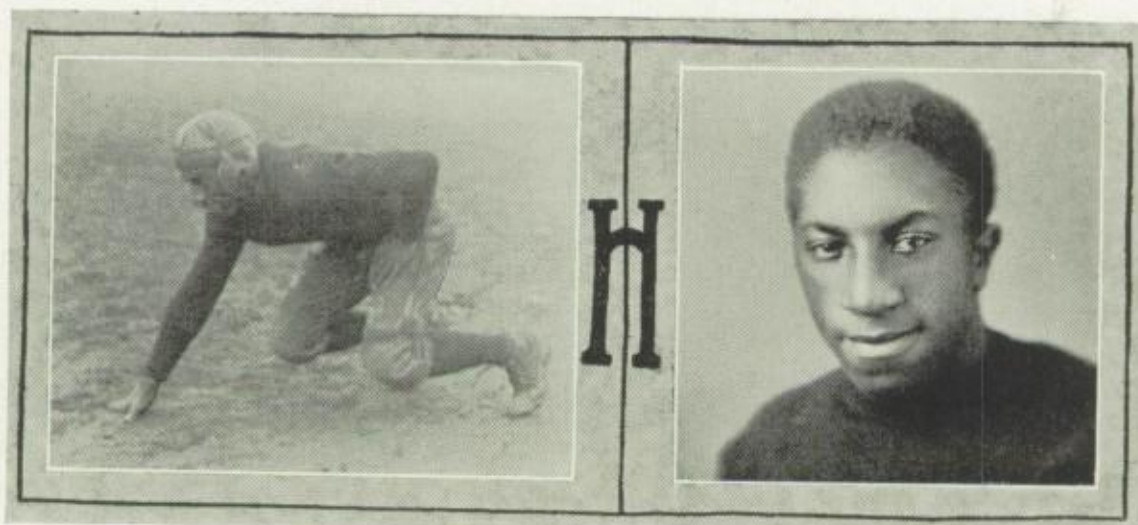

Harold Parcher

Of the widely scattered conglomeration of football lights that sparkled so brightly on the gridiron horizon during the past season there is one whose gleam penetrates through the entire mass of brilliancy. Such a personage was none other than "Steve" Parcher, for four years the keystone man in the Harding forward wall, and likewise picked unanimously by North Central Ohio sport writers as holder of the center position on the mythical All-Conference Eleven. Four years a letter man! 125 actual school days devoted entirely to the lowly microbic affliction! Can such things be?

Merritt Cobb

As for the Captain-elect, little need be said other than that he is a real leader of men and a player who understands the art of the pigskin from A to Z. Coming as a little personal message to the Captain is this, "BEAT GALION." If "Cobby" does nothing more than to captain a team to victory against the Peifer-coached squad he will have done his part in Harding High football. Other than that he can, if he still feels ambitious, take the North Central Ohio championship and pull off a lot of other li'l stunts—à suivre.

Clarence Mendenhall

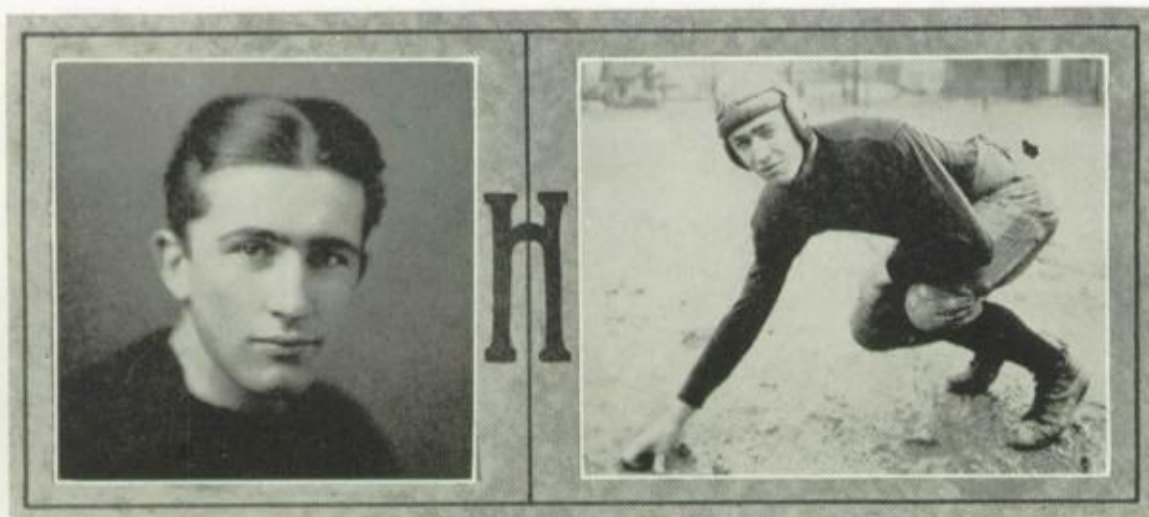

"Mendy," according to all optical performances, seems to be that rare specimen of prehistoric biped—the football player without a weakness. Perfectly at home in any phase of the game, he gains with equal facility around the end and through the line, on fair fields and on foul, is adept on both the throwing and receiving ends of forward passes, and is well above the average on defense. Being human, there must be some defect in his football performance, but whatever it is, we can't find it—perhaps he wears sideburns.

Gail Doan

"And a little child shall lead them." Such, indeed, might be a fitting heading for this paragraph in Harding High School gridiron history. Tipping the well-known beam at 130, "Doany" represented the lightest man on the varsity squad, but what he lacked in avoirdupois was readily made up by a keen mind that grasped every possible advantage in attack. As field general for the Maroons, he achieved success far beyond all expectancy and in addition set a record for circling the ends that should remain secure in the annals of Harding High grid history for some time.

The Quiver

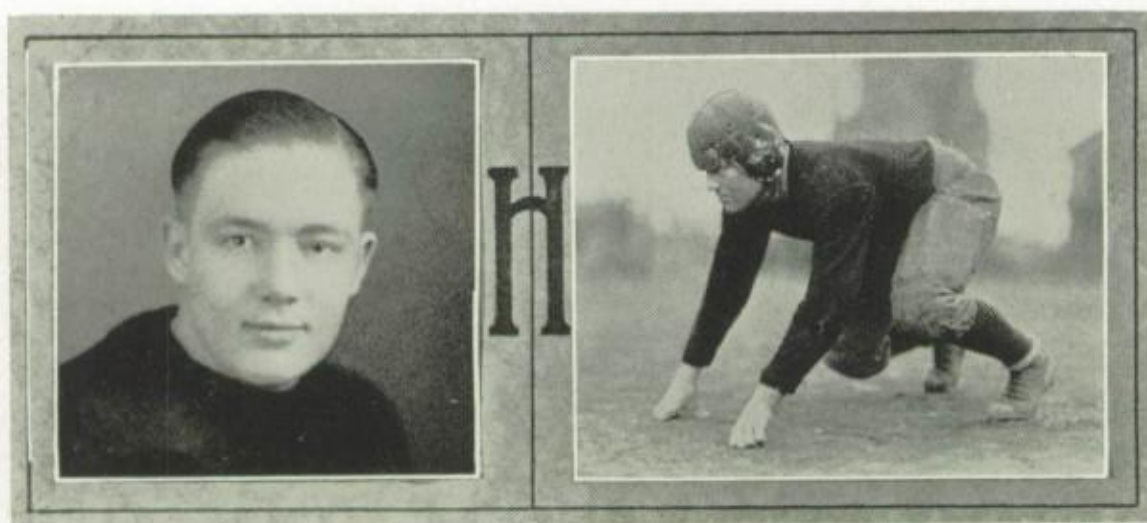

Charles Schoenlaub

One of the eleven varieties, you will invariably find the name of Schoenlaub tucked away in the category of backs par excellence in North Central Ohio football circles. A consistent ground gainer, he seemed to thrive on any kind of soil, under any condition, at home or abroad, and in addition carried a certain amount of reserve which was often called upon in a crucial moment of play. Where other firmaments on the gridiron sparkled with an erratic glow, now dim, now bright; Schoenlaub was always that same plugging back that could be relied on in a pinch to deliver the goods.

Jack Houghton

Old Man Mars himself in all his warring splendor never represented anything more picturesque than Jack Houghton, who with his "Fighting Face" backed with a superabundance of pep created a typical picture of the ideal linesman during the past season. Short and stocky, he nevertheless slid over ye old gridiron with an ease that would have done credit to the most seasoned veteran, and as for driving power—substantial references will be furnished in any of the schools in the North Central Ohio football league. 'Nuf Ced.

The Quiver

Guy Lowe

"Cow" Lowe. How musically the name trills in my ear. To my subconscious mind it suggests something airy, something self-like and dreamy, as the wisp of smoke that billows so gracefully to the azure skies above. But, alas and alack, 'tis not so, for the attribute of "Cow" stands for all that that name implies—a mountain of hulking beef, seemingly endowed with all that is essential to the ideal football player and, moreover, equipped with the intangible spirit of fight that has become synonymous with the name of Harding High.

Edgar Fisher

'Nother of the "Pork and Beaners." Fisher was Schott's running mate, not only in their various walks of life, but also on the football field where the pair aspired to the lofty heights of wingman in the varsity. That "Ed" realized the throbbing ambition of his young life is attested to by the fact of the appearance of his smiling countenance on this unsullied page of the "QUIVER ANNUAL." Graduation will find him turning his broad shoulders for the last time on the old school and the flaunting red jersey for which he fought.

The Quiver

Hayes Smith

A living example of the story-book football player stood "Smitty"—linesman superb, with all the qualifications of the ideal football player rolled into one concentrated exponent of the modern American sport. Physically "Hayes" was a giant. Although not quite the muchly advertised six-foot one, he nevertheless weighed around 200 pounds during football season and every pound meant just that much determination to hold back the surging line of rival backs. Another of his accomplishments during the past four years was to pile up sixteen credits, which means (see Hoyle) that he graduates.

Ed Merchant

Sensational is a word that is sadly over-worked by sport writers, but it is the only one that aptly describes "Ed" Merchant, who has been justly characterized as 145 pounds of "wim, wigor, and witality." Vieing with the celebrated Doan in his ability to circle the ends he possessed, in addition, a driving power that could carry the ball with success on a line play, together with an eye and mind that could grasp every possibility presented by an aerial attack. Rumors have it that he will be back next year.

The Quiver

John Schott

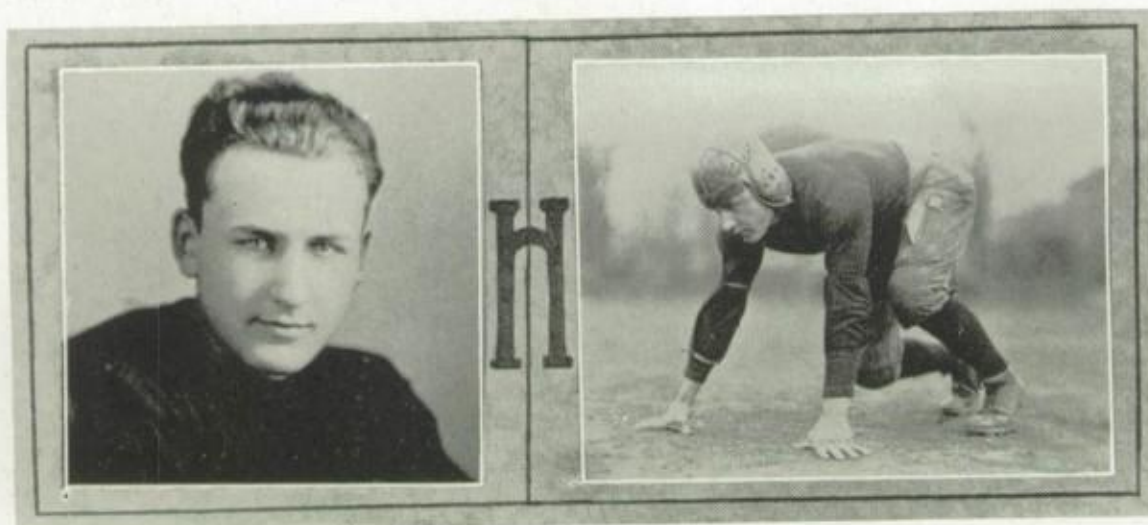

According to secret but reliable information, "Bus" Schott should go down in history as one of the original "Pork and Beans" of Harding High. Other than his affiliation with that noted organ, "Bus" or "Jawn" as his mother called him, is a real football player and one who should make his mark as a wingman in inter-collegiate football circles. His favorite hobby seems to be in hauling down passes, both neutral and otherwise, and many a yard of green turf did he win for the Harding forces with his ability to spear a flying pigskin let loose from a rival back. Graduation? Absolutely, Mr. Gallagher!

Kenneth Kunkler

Some fellows, like the proverbial sore thumb, actually seem to stand out from their more plebian fellow-beings and clamor for recognition, v-i-z., Kenneth Kunkler. Situated on the top of the Harding first line defense, he not only stood head and shoulders above the crowd in a physical sense, but also as wingman on the varsity did he outclass any in North Central Ohio. 'Tis whispered around the office that "High Pockets" will be back next year to take a leading role in the annual "Crashin' Through" production of '25.

The Quiver

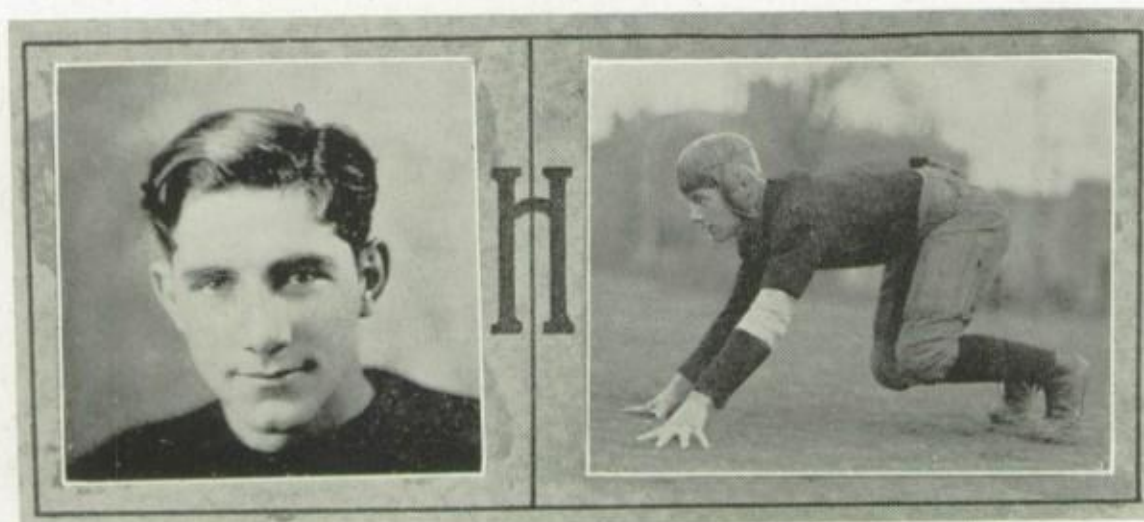

Herman Felty

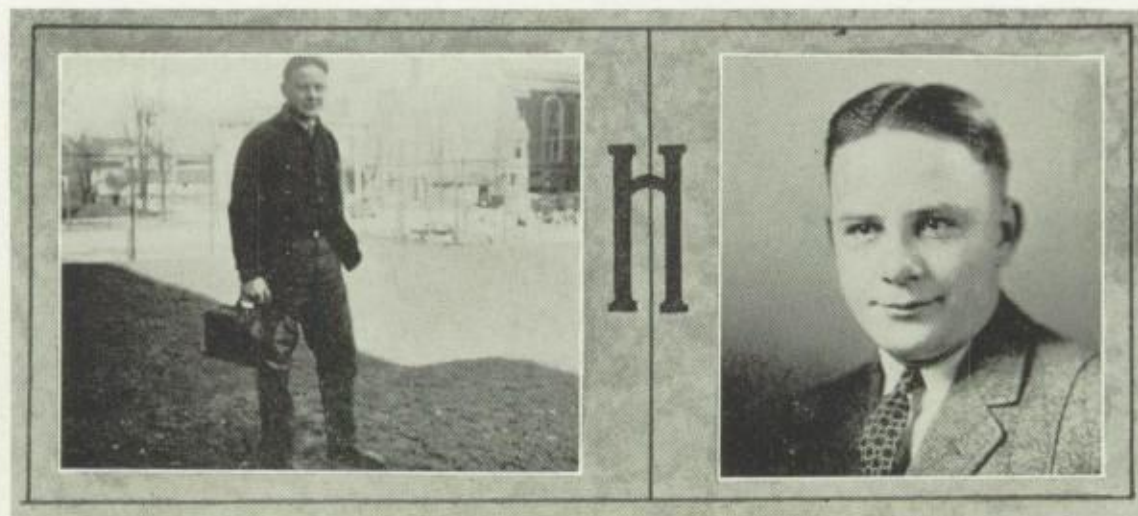

Down at the Rotary Club they call him "Mister," but up here we still address him as "Felty," the missing link in the Harding forward wall. They don't make them big enough to take him out and what human wreckage strewn his path after a successful plunge on a lone play is left to be told in the annals of other high schools. "Felty" was a real, honest to goodness, dyed in the wool linesman, one who could hold his own with the best on defensive play and was far above par when it came to hitting the line on a 16—47—61 signal.

Theodore Brownlee

Coming from the far eastern country, there sojourned among us last year "The Little Boy from Martel," otherwise officially known and labeled as Theodore Brownlee. "Teddy" was primarily a ladies' man but he had, in addition to his vast and comprehensive knowledge of the feminine foibles, a certain over-all measurement of—say—five foot eleven by 36, and in accordance with the prevailing custom, Coach Sprout proceeded to teach him the gentle art of football with much gusto (whatever that is). Cap and gown. Good bye, "Ted."

The Quiver

A. I. Hinklin

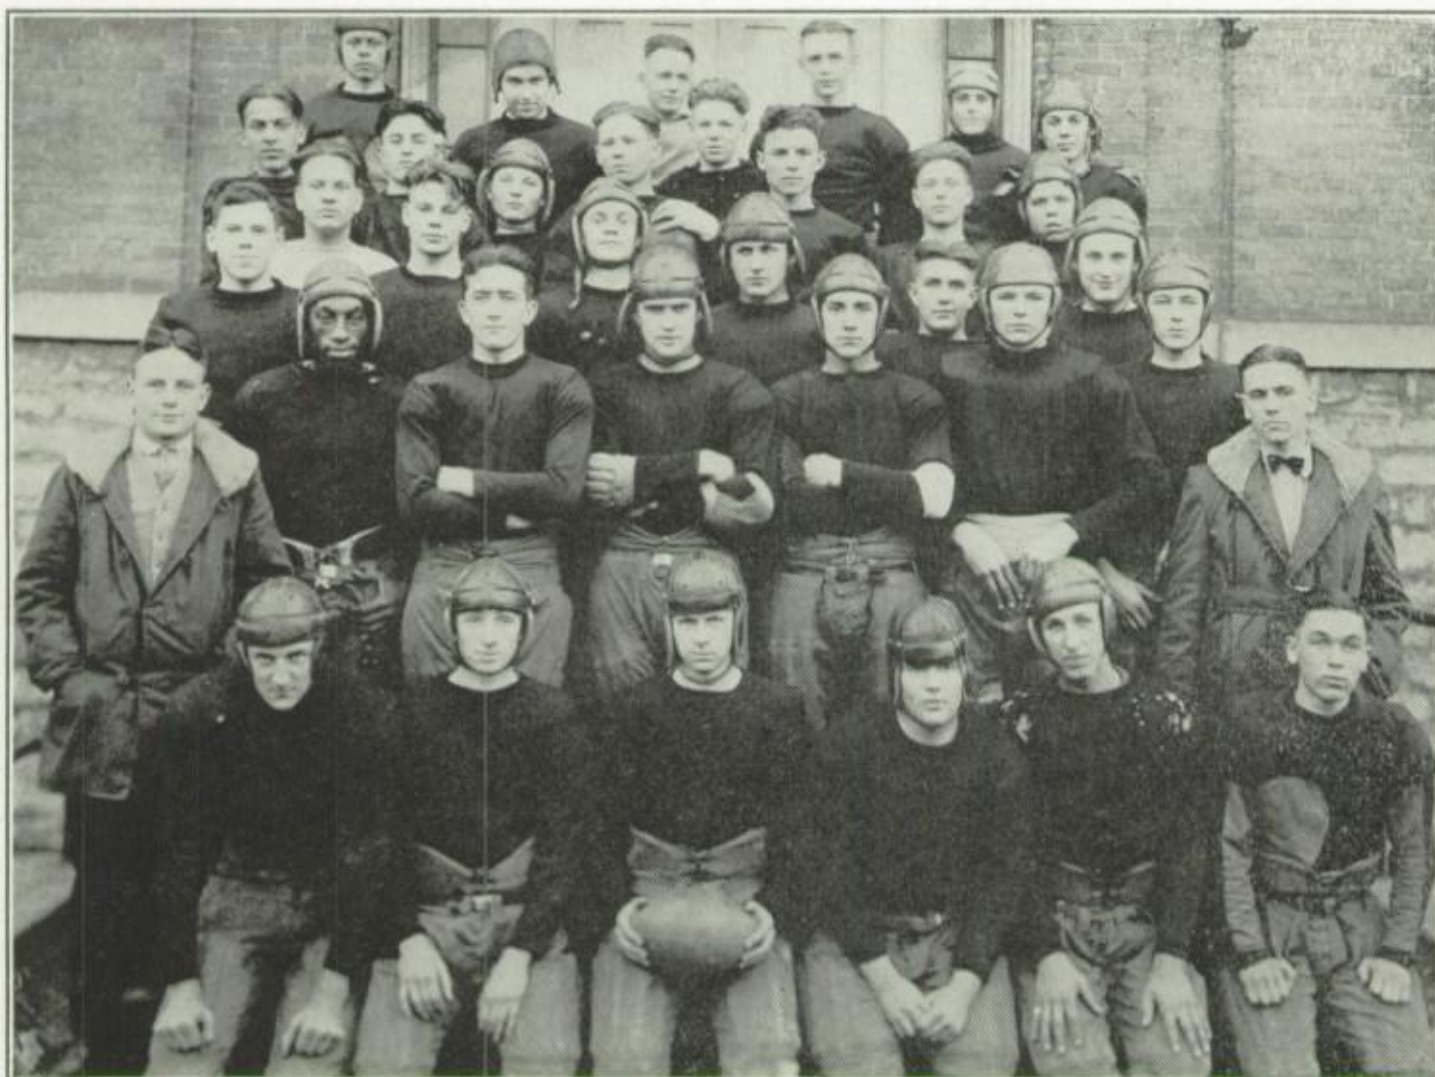

A shock of red hair, freckles of the Wesley Barry variety, mixed with a cheery grin, and you have the picture of the genuine American boy in A. I. Hinklin, our student manager. Maybe he does walk slowly, but when some player was hurt A. I. was right there with his portable hospital kit. Pep, initiative, and unfailing energy were the characteristics of our manager, A. I. Hinklin, whose name will long be remembered in Harding High.

Cecil Maloney

Unlike one of those widely advertised 57 varieties "Pat" is the one and only of his kind. A picture which will never fade from the eyes of Harding High is that of our dashing "Pat" with arms upraised, body gracefully bent, and his head uplifted while he leads us in that Harding High fight-yell. When he flashes across the field, we've simply got to yell and the team must win. It will hardly seem natural next year without your yelling at the games, but we'll never forget you, Patrick—never.

The Quiver

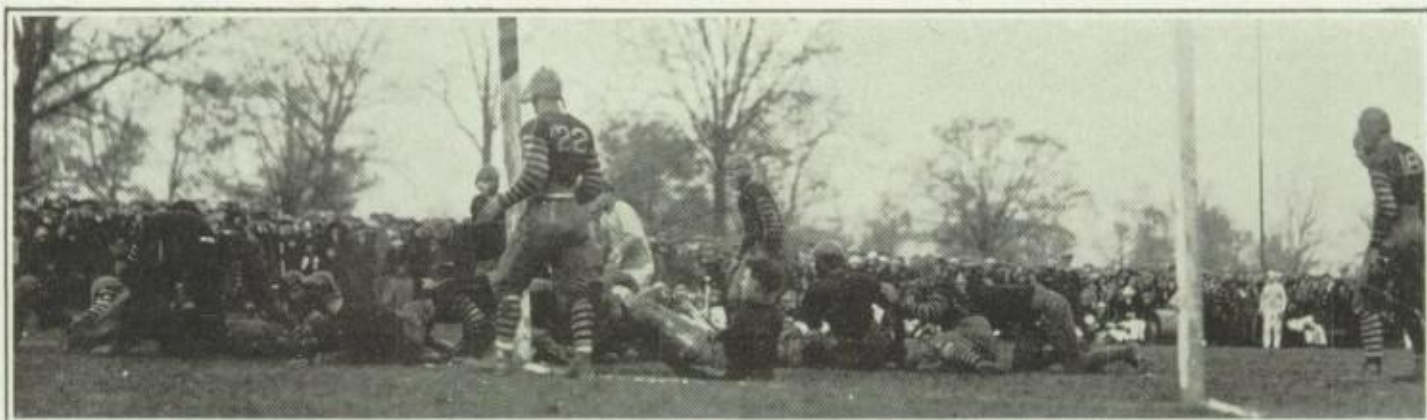

THE FOOTBALL TEAM

HARDING HIGH—RICHWOOD HIGH

"Far from the maddening crowd" and fighting it out under the steady drip, drip, drip of falling rain, the Harding forces heralded the approach of the 1924 football season by trouncing the Richwood eleven by a count of 25 to 6 in the opening encounter on the gridiron program.

Even without the use of rowboats, both teams managed to cover considerable ground and the game afforded an excellent practice school for the later "big five" conflicts.

The Quiver

HARDING HIGH—ST. MARY'S

Round Two of "Fighting Blood" found the Maroons in perfect condition, and in accordance with a traditionary custom the Harding squad proceeded to teach the St. Mary's oval chasers a little lesson in football at a net cost of 47 to 0 for each and every lesson. One was enough. Even now we regret that Dame Fortune did not look more favorably on the Saints, for an even break in the game would perhaps have left Harding in a more presentable playing condition for the first league game.

HARDING HIGH—GALION HIGH

The saddest words of tongue or pen—"We lost to Galion."

Alibis for the defeat are many and close together, but the main reason that the Black and Red machine failed to register was due to the fact that the Sproutmen were trying to dramatize the Hare and Tortoise fable, with ourselves as the hare—well, it didn't work.

At one time during the game, Harding led by fourteen points, but the locals took their "nap" in the second half and Galion walked off with the bacon to the waltzing tune of 27 to 20. Mad? You couldn't talk to Coach Sprout for a week!

The Quiver

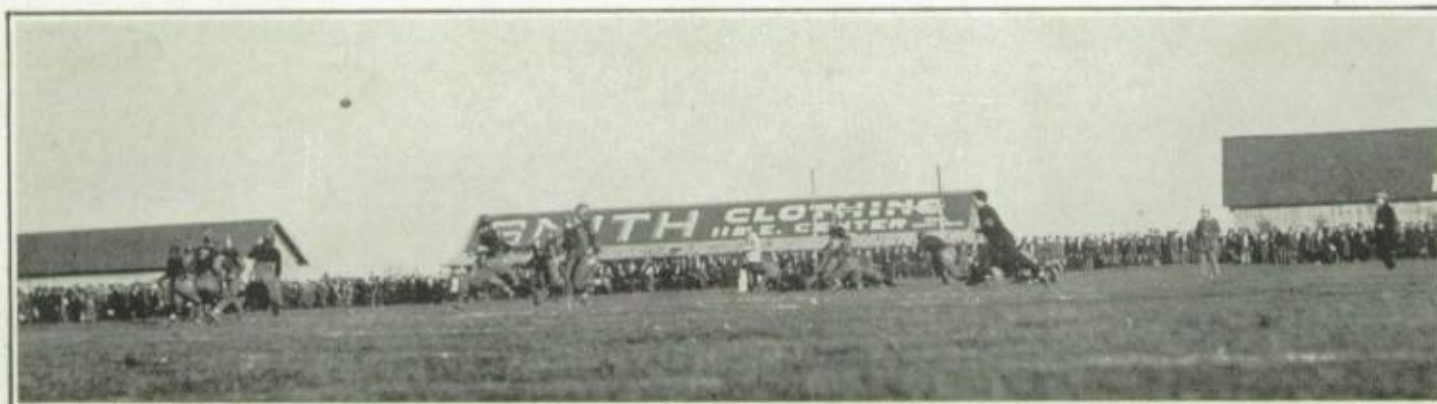

HARDING HIGH—KENTON HIGH

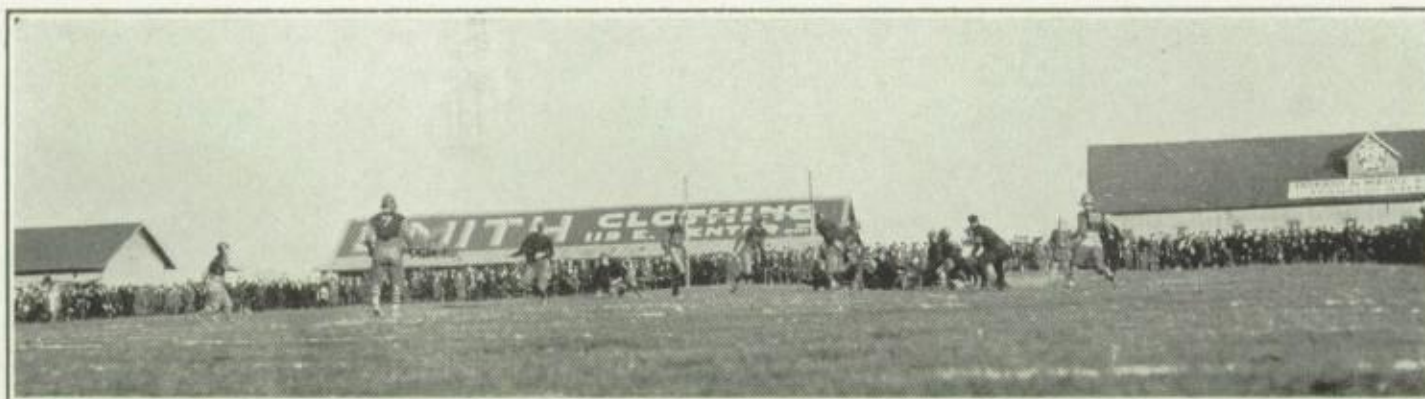

After a blissful (?) week of Coach Sprout's masterpieces of oratory, Harding redeemed herself by "chastising" the Kenton pigskin artists by a score of 38 to 0. "Cow" Lowe made his first touchdown. The Kenton team, although outweighing the locals eight pounds to a man, were seemingly at a loss throughout the game and only started to play real football during the last quarter of play. Line plunging of Mendenhall featured.

HARDING HIGH—ASHLAND HIGH

Coming as a sweet morsel to the "bloodthirsty" Harding High gridders was the game with Ashland, which ended in an ultimate score of 33 to 6 in favor of the Maroons. Harding out-played and out-maneuvered their opponents in every phase of the game, and it was but a 'slip twict the cup,' etc., that gave the Orange their infinitesimal six points on the scoreboard. Evans was the individual performer of the fray and his 140 pounds was just that much sand and pebbles in Coach Wilson's scientific machine.

The Quiver

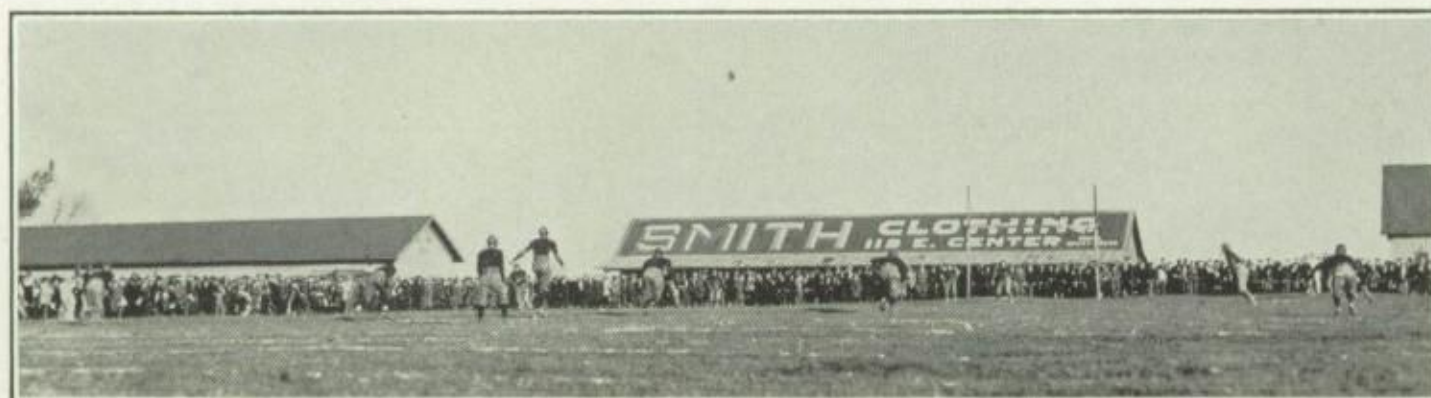

HARDING HIGH—BUCYRUS HIGH

Another one! Harding journeyed to Bucyrus on November 2 and after experimenting for fifteen minutes, broke loose and commenced a gradual extermination of the Northern tribe to the tune of 25 to 6. At no time was the Harding lead seriously threatened, but the up-staters had a fighting backfield that gave the game a doubtful aspect during the first two quarters of play. Doan starred. Special mention should be given to Nussbaum, who is generally conceded to be the best open-field runner in North Central Ohio.

HARDING HIGH—MANSFIELD HIGH

Back in 1923 Coach S. Frederick Reid frightened the children of the Harding High School with a weird tale of the prowess of the Mansfield smashing eleven.

Again in 1924, Coach Paul Sprout, with a rumbling staccato voice, informed the community that the "Eastern Pride" would "offer considerable resistance" to the Harding squad. The psychic effect brought on nightmares, maybe, but the Pride of the East was nothing but a tame little gopher that Harding proceeded to smack with unmitigated gusto. Three thousand fans, a record crowd for inter-scholastic football, turned out to see the game which has since been characterized as Harding High's most glorious football victory. Oh, yes, if some of you are so absent-minded as to have forgotten the score—37 to 10—Harding.

The Quiver

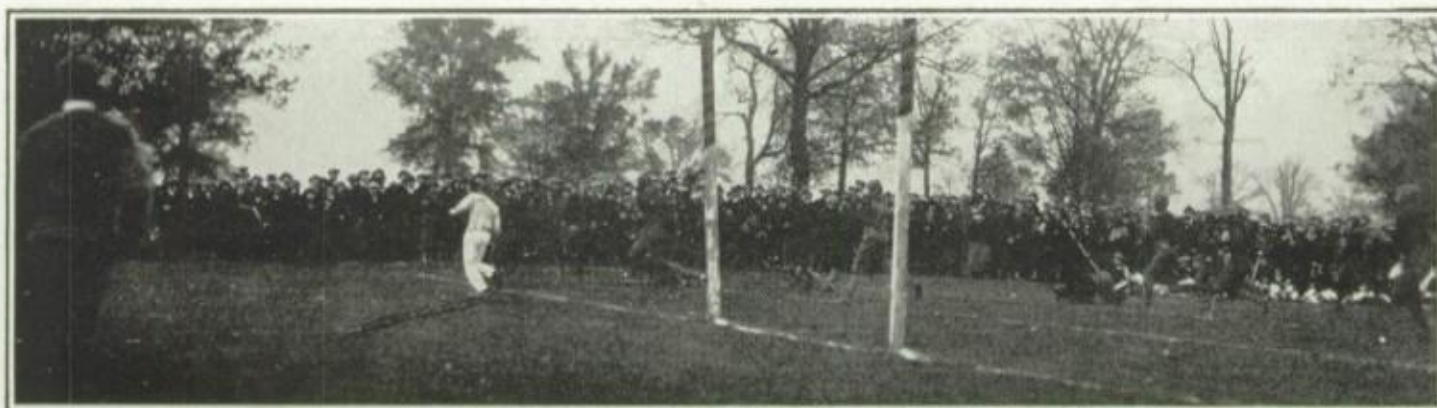

HARDING HIGH—DELAWARE HIGH

The "big bust" of the North Central Ohio football came—saw—and was defeated. Riddled by late season upsets, the down-staters were unable to hold their own against Harding, although they held the locals scoreless in the third period. Evans ran 95 yards for touchdown. Doan goes through line for 65. 'Twas a great game, Henry.

HARDING HIGH—ALUMNI

As I sit here pounding this out on my old trusty type machine, I can still remember that Alumni game with the side-stepping antics of Weidiman and Conarty, and the line-plunging ability exhibited by "Johnny" Drehr. Harding was willing enough, but was battered into submission through an ample dose of sheer force. Even at that, the old grads were doing some tall puffing when the conflict was over, but were seemingly satisfied with their 15 to 2 victory over the yearlings.

Basketball

G. B. Hubbard

Another product of ye old Wesleyan brings us again to the self-evident truth that the little Delaware college manufactures the real stuff. Said "another product" referred to being none other than yours truly, G. B. Hubbard, who as coach for the Harding High School Basket Ball team set a high water mark in All-Ohio tournament circles that should remain for an eon or two, more or less (mostly less), for posterity to shoot at.

When one stops to consider the advance made by the Red and Black cage squad in the All-Ohio tournament, a natural question pushes itself to the surface of the gray matter. Why and how Harding when so far in the elimination rounds is generally traced back to luck, but behind that four leaf clover there is something more tangible which gradually shapes itself into a six-foot beanpole, commonly hailed as G. B. "Mother" Hubbard.

If any man ever earned the title of "Coach" it was Hubbard. Endowed with a perfectly balanced basket ball mechanism himself, he seems to have that knack of lending out his own supply of physical prowess and skill to a host of untried athletes—and all for the honor of the gleaming white jersey and the school for which it stands.

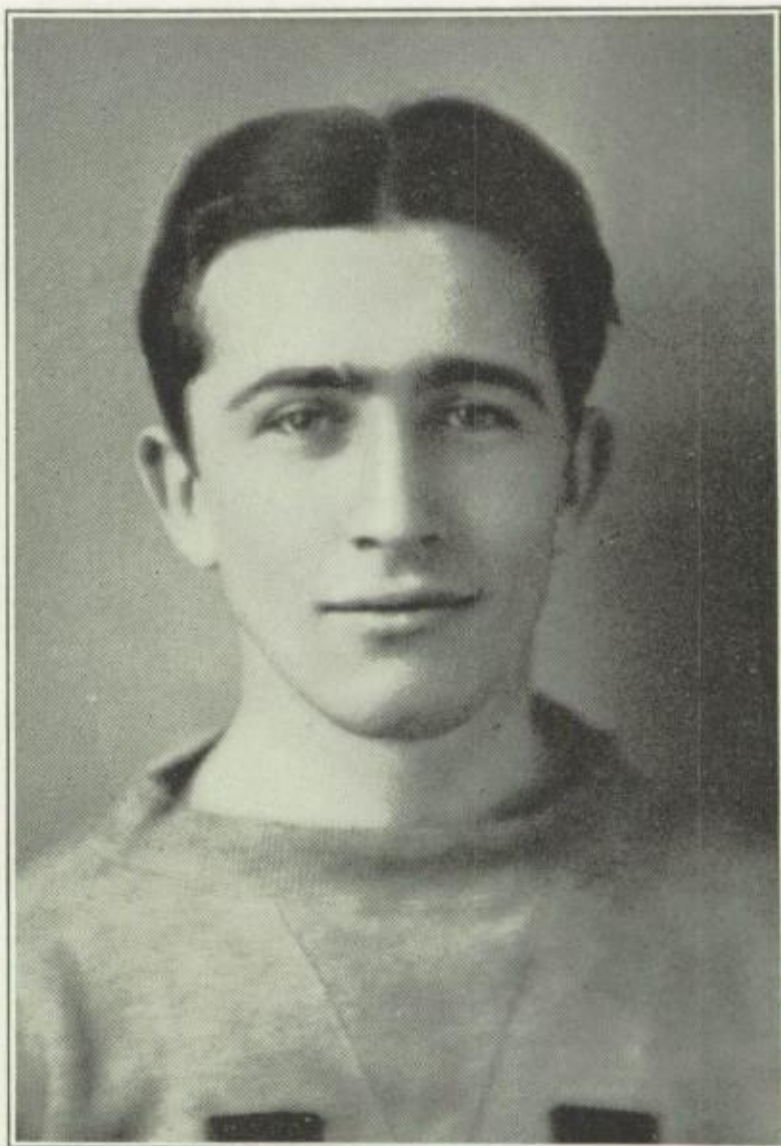

Next year we expect to see the "Hubbardmen" journey to Delaware, clean up "Westerville," run the whole gamut of cage performances to the "chastisement" of all other competing teams, and end up by bringing home to its final resting place the cup which is symbolic of an All-Ohio championship.

Other than basket ball, "Gawge" spends his reserve energy in doing Babe Herman Ruth stunts on the diamond, and who knows but in some not far distant day we may see enacted on the diamond our little dream drama of a championship baseball team under the guiding eye of one who has given to Harding the reputation of having a "fighting team."

Charles Schoenlaub

Somewhere in the dim and distant past, I remember reading an interesting article which brought to light the startling information that the personage of the average individual consisted of—"Phosphorus enough to make two Searchlight matches; salt in sufficient quantity to fill a small shaker; iron to the sufficient amount of two ten-penny nails and divers other ingredients—the total, estimated in plain mercantile value at about ninety-eight cents."

Mix the ninety-eight cents' worth of material aforesaid mentioned, let it bake for eighteen years in an earthen oven, remove, garnish with a basket ball uniform, and cap the whole with a keen mind that is fully alive to every possible angle of the basket ball game and you have a scientific picture of Charles Schoenlaub, captain of the Red and Black cage squad and one of the finest pieces of basket ball mechanism ever turned out by Harding High.

Even now we can remember the typical action "snap" of "Cholly's." That famous galloping dribble of his, the tense moment when every muscle flexed for action, the trial, and the invariable swish of a rippled net as the ball slid through—that was always C. S. "Ye old reliable" would fit him well, for he seldom missed.

Not only in basketball, but also on the gridiron did Schoenlaub distinguish himself as a true sportsman, one who felt a pardonable pride in victory, but who, on the other hand, could take a defeat with the grace of a true lover of athletics.

Like a host of others, he has gone; like scores of others, he has carved his name in the Harding athletic Hall of Fame, and as many before him have done, he is off to college. A new field awaits him, one that calls to many but chooses few, and who knows but what we might some day see Schoenlaub performing on a giant scale the things which made him famous in 1924.

Kenneth Kunkler

Kenneth "Kayo" Kunkler played a hard, fast game at defensive and secured a place for himself on the first team at the district tournament this year. They don't make 'em long-legged enough to out-jump him. Kayo will be back next year with the honor of Captain Kunkler, and much is expected from him.

Russell Evans

Russell Evans alias "Russ" made his debut this year in basket ball. Although this is his first year on the cage team, his offensive and defensive game were beyond reproach. As a part of the smooth running machine of Hubbardmen "Russ" has indeed contributed his part. We shall miss his cheery smile next year.

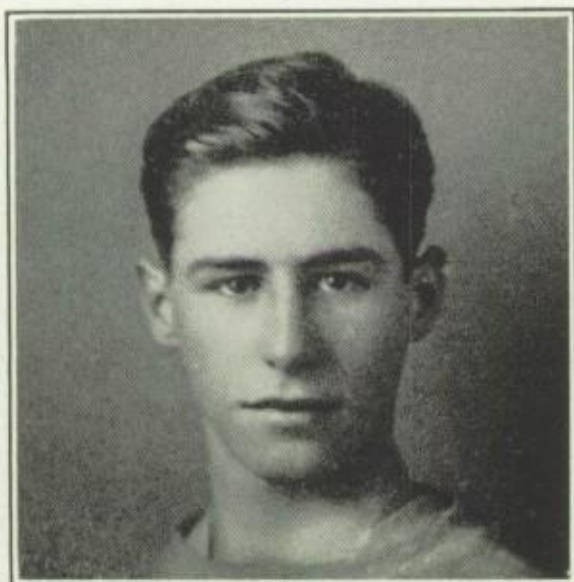

Cecil Maloney

"Pat" Maloney, another first year man playing with the grace and form of a veteran. We shall always remember "Pat" for his wonderful work in the Delaware game. This was his first real game and after that—well, he was a regular, playing a heady game either at center or forward. Yes, he is a Senior!

Harrod Geissler

Geissler, playing at forward, was unexcelled in speed and accuracy on both defense and offense. The opponents couldn't understand how he broke their defense, but he always got through. He landed a berth on the second all-tournament team and we expect great things from "Geiss," for he has two more years.

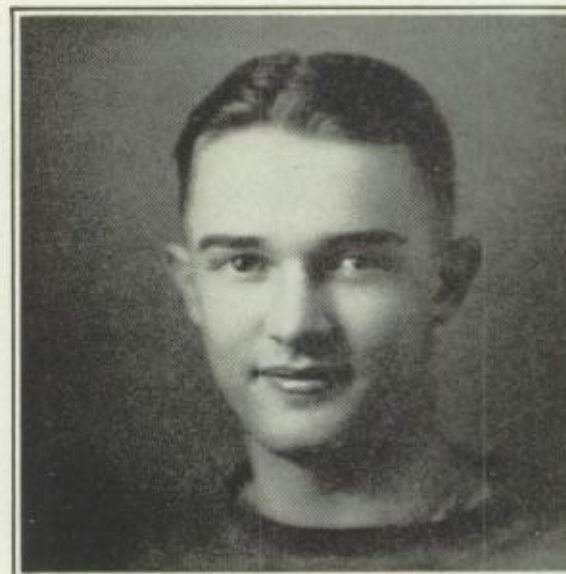

Henry Rinnert

Henry played his first season on the varsity with all the markings of an expert. "Good lookin'" played forward and helped make a team that was hard to beat. Little, but mighty, fits him well. We must also say farewell to Rinnert.

John Bartam

"Johnnie" turned out to be 140 pounds of the best fighting blood that ever donned a Harding High School uniform. Whenever a game was lagging, it was always John who could come through with the "stuff."

Kenneth Seiter

This was Kenneth Seiter's second year on the varsity basket ball team of Harding High. "Toots" playing a hard, speedy game as forward, made a very commendable showing for himself this season. His ability on the floor made him a worthy match for his opponents. This is "Toots'" last year with us, as he is a dignified Senior and graduates with '24.

Paul Reed

This 130 pounds of pep and activity, better known as Reed, was one of the best varsity cage managers that ever carried the ball and bag. "Let Reed do this, or that," was the favorite crying of all the squad, and no matter what it was, Reed always would be willing to do it.

Dorothy Boyer

A flutter of arms and a voice that instilled nothing but loyalty and enthusiasm to the crowds before her were all the attributes of our wonderful cheer leaderess, Dorothy Boyer.

THE BASKET BALL SEASON

Fighting to the last minute, only to be beaten by a few points, the Harding High School basket ball team ended a most successful season on March 14 at the Colosseum at Columbus.

Although the team was defeated in the last game of the season, it does not mean that the team did not win. The squad was above the 500 per cent line.

From the very beginning of the season crowds witnessed the Harding quintet take and lose victories, but nevertheless many remarks that were heard were very much in favor of the team. At the tournaments Harding High was termed "THE BLACK HORSE"—a name very well deserved.

Although the team did not get a good start, when Columbus North High was met here, the team which was composed of mostly green men staged a rally and the following week defeated Ashland, the North Central Ohio champions, in an overtime period. It was Harding High that administered the only league defeat to Ashland during the entire season.

Athens was the next team to meet Harding here, and the jinx which had held our boys for three years was dropped, and Athens was defeated by a big margin. The slump that caused Harding to lose the league championship came next when Mansfield and Bucyrus defeated Harding High by very small margins.

Delaware and Galion were put on the victory side of the margin, but in the second contest with Delaware the locals were unable to cope with the last minute playing of the Delaware team and another game was lost by one point. The night after the single point defeat at Delaware the locals were subdued at Cambridge after a hard fought battle.

Sandusky came to Marion practically sure of victory, but the Blue and White boys went home with a defeat which did honor to the Harding team.

Next came the district tournament at Delaware. In this the Harding crew drew the same team in the first round that they drew in 1923—Westerville. Harding eliminated Westerville with ease, although it was Westerville's first defeat of the season. In the second round the locals defeated Columbus South and in the third round repeated with a defeat for Columbus North. In the finals Columbus East, champions of Columbus and runners up for the state championship, defeated Harding 16-7.

Toledo Libby high school succeeded in defeating Harding by three points in a rough and tumble game at Toledo, one week after the district tournament.

Harding High's ability came to light the brightest on March 14 at Columbus when the highly touted Lakewood quintet fell before the locals in a 25-24 mix-up. The odds were very much in favor of the Maple City crew, but Harding with its old fighting pep won out. In the second round of the state tournament the locals lost to Marietta by four points, after a hard battle on a slippery floor, which would prove discouraging to any team.

In all the defeats and victories the Harding High put up the fightin'st battles seen by high school crowds, and they deserve much praise—not only should the squad be mentioned, but the one big factor and chief who made possible the victories—Coach GEORGE HUBBARD.

LEADER CORPS

Organized under Coach Frederick Reed the Leader Corps has made progress very rapidly. Men were picked for this corps by the competitive method, thus insuring that only the best men would make it.

This year, under Coach Paul Sprout, the Leader Corps has gained a splendid reputation throughout the school for the fine work it is doing in leading gym classes.

The corps will lose only three men by graduation, and so it is looking forward to a splendid season next year.

The members of the corps this year are:

Sam Brown

Harold Jacobs

Warren Ballentine,

Wendall Fidler

Russell Fowler

Harrison Sullivan

Vaughn Fox

GYM TEAM

Organized only last year, the Gym Team is rapidly gaining popularity in the scholastic circles.

During the past year the team has given exhibitions at Galion, Toledo, Delaware, Ashland and Marion, and these performances have been splendidly received.

The Ohio Wesleyan Gym Team has given our boys some pointers in the game. It seems that in some lines of the work they are progressing splendidly.

The members of the team are:

Sam Brown

Vaughn Fox

Harold Jacobs

Russell Fowler, Manager
